Window Cleaning.

A little turpentine in warm water is the best thing for cleaning windows thoroughly.

Prize Winner.

Huggins—They tell me Mrs. Henpeck is a neat and tidy housekeeper. Guggins—Why, yes; her husband, so I am informed, can't even drop a remark at home but what she picks it up immediately.—Springfield Union.

CUPID'S ADVERTISEMENT.

Cupid is a busy elf. You can see this for yourself. Yet perhaps he'll find it wise presently to advertise. Somewhat in this style maybe, "Hearts extracted painlessly." He'll, of course, omit to state that the after pain is great. And when heart is gone, 'tis sad. Man is apt to lose his head. Gladly would he bear some pain if his heart he could regain.—New York Sun.

BARCAROLE.

Small fingers on the silken strings
Sunset and rising moon;
Far off in the whir of wings
Of homing birds in June.
And then west there the twilight
Oh, how
O bitter is the biwa's music now!

Beneath the scented lamp-lids
On some celestial train
We drifted with the purple winds
That filled our sampan sail;
The purple winds blow once and
and not again—
O bitter is the biwa's tender strain!

—Harper's Weekly

Footscap

Footscap paper derives its name from the fact that the water mark on it in early times was a fool's cap.

DUTY.

Even if you have to force yourself to do your duty, still do it. Do your duty even if your duty be wearisome and hard, for then you are in the place where it can become joyous and easy to you.—Phillips Brooks.

Love's Prudence.

"Darling, will you share my lot?"
"Is it a good building lot?"—Baltimore American.

Not Self Sacrificing.

"Don't you think two can live as cheaply as one?" asked the poor young man.

"I've often heard so," answered the prudent girl, "but I shouldn't care to pursue the study of social economy at the risk of going without a full complement of meals."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The Easier Task.

It is easier to cap the climax than it is to provide hats for your wife.—Judge.
